Photonic Integration Conference

5th edition

High Tech Campus Conference Center, Eindhoven, The Netherlands

SPONSORING PACKAGE

Photonics is the key enabling technology engine needed to keep the globe communicating and connected in the 21st century. It provides the bandwidth, speed, reach and flexibility needed to run exciting new applications that everyone knows – healthcare & life sciences, internet of things, M2M, social media, big data, datacenters, cloud computing and voice over IP. It's the most energy efficient technology to scale up all these services.

Join us for a one-day executive conference explaining why integrated photonics is vital to keep our world communicating and connected in the 21st century. We're bringing the global experts to Eindhoven, the undisputed innovation champion of light technologies.

The Photonic Integration Conference takes place during the Photonics Applications Week:

Conference

The conference consists of a plenary session with keynote presentations from internationally recognised leaders in their respective fields and several parallel sessions which address specific elements of the photonics value chain. The conference program is being developed, so please visit our conference programme for the latest programme updates or stay up to date via our newsletter.
